

It's not about which party I belong to; it's about equal air time for candidates as our media outlets are supposed to be non-partisan, deliver equal amounts of air time by presenting to their viewers balanced information, and offer un-biased information so that people can make informed decisions when they vote. Sinclair is thumbing their nose at the very people it works for. To air such programming is a grave injustice to the American political system and the American people.